Dr. Gina Browne

B.Sc.N., M.Sc., M.Ed., Ph.D., Hon.LL.D, F.C.A.H.S
Founder of the Health & Social Service Utilization Research Unit from McMaster University

I witnessed Pat Gough breathing fun and passion into every student who crosses her path by:

- Transforming into resourceful and resilient contributors to society.
Feature true grit, kindness, collaboration and giving every youth a choice and voice.
Humour, persistence, and adaptability transformed the behaviours, attitudes, and beliefs, of each youth, into confident, caring individuals.
Clearly defining how costs to society that engage youth back to high school, far exceeds the cost of helping them. Integrating life skills into daily practices is THE game changer!

Pat Gough showed me how to:

- Consolidate learning through integration of subject areas.
Use great tricks for cutting prep time, minimizing stress and overwhelm.
Hit more key learning expectations across strands.
Build life skills into daily lessons to reinforce soft skills and developing a sense of self and society, so students can hardly wait to come to school!
